Each time she left 28 D Street — one among a row of identical triple-decker houses, the tenements lining the street like so many stained teeth — her route reflected this internal almanac. . . . For ten years this was enough. Then in fifth grade, Lydia saw a city map and dangling from Boston's sleeve. Across the bridge lay Washington Street — the which began like any other but then continued north, a single determined thread of cobblestone that wove itself
