

Apocrifi Dell ' Antico Testamento (Classici Delle Religioni)

The recovery of 800 documents in the eleven caves on the northwest shores of the Dead Sea is one of the most sensational archeological discoveries in the Holy Land to date. These three volumes, the very best of critical scholarship, demonstrate in detail how the scrolls have revolutionized our knowledge of the text of the Bible, the character of Second Temple Judaism, and the Jewish beginnings of Christianity.

Vol. 4 covers the late Roman period to the rise of Islam. Focuses especially on the growth and development of rabbinic Judaism and of the major classical rabbinic sources such as the Mishnah, Jerusalem Talmud, Babylonian Talmud and various Midrashic collections.

A Survey on Disciplines, Cultures and Questions

The recent publication of The Old Testament Pseudepigrapha has made available for the first time in one collection 65 documents, or extant portions of them, related to the Old Testament, many of them dating from the third century B.C.E. to the second century C.E. and therefore extremely important for a better understanding of Christian origins and the writings in the New Testament. In this book, the editor of that collection presents his reflections on the importance of those documents for a much-needed clarification of the history and thought of those centuries and the emergence of both synagogal Judaism and Christianity. He discusses the Pseudepigrapha in the light of the canon of scripture assesses their significance for biblical studies, and makes a comparison with the Dead Sea Scrolls and the Nag Hammadi Codices. Professor Charlesworth offers a critique and concludes the work with an examination of the Jewish origins of early Christianity.

Studies on Tradition, Redaction, and Theology

A collection of articles on Classical, Jewish and Christian literatures which explore the interaction between the respective languages and cultures at the levels of philology, theology, motives, or realia. The book reveals the fecundating process of transmission, assimilation and reaction among the texts. This Festschrift is a mélange of studies covering the wide range of Van der Woude's interests. They have been arranged according to the order: Hebrew Bible (following the sequence of the books), Apocrypha, Dead Sea Scrolls, and Rabbinic Tradition.

In the Second Degree

Apocrifi dell'Antico Testamento

To better understand the phenomenon of Literature in the Second Degree – in Jewish and Biblical studies often characterized as parabiblical or Rewritten Bible – the current volume applies the theories of Gerard Genette to ancient and medieval literature from various cultures. Literature in the Second Degree realigns earlier (authoritative) texts to the dynamics of developing cultures and their changing cultural memories. In the case of authoritative base texts, Literature in the Second Degree reaffirms their authority by way of interpretative actualization. In the case of non-authoritative base texts it replaces them to effect cultural forgetting. Far from being just literary forgery (pseudepigraphy), Literature in the Second Degree has an important function in the development of the ancient and medieval cultures.

In its approach to evidence, not harmonizing but analyzing and differentiating, this book marks a revolutionary shift in the study of ancient Judaism and Christianity.

Iniziare dalla persona di Gesù di Nazaret per comprendere e leggere il Nuovo Testamento può sembrare un paradosso. Sono infatti gli scritti del Nuovo Testamento le fonti principali che ci parlano di lui, di ciò che ha detto e fatto. Ma questi stessi...

In un tempo di grandi cambiamenti, in cui tante cose, anche in campo religioso, vengono messe in discussione, è importante non perdere mai di vista quelle che sono state le origini del cristianesimo. Questo tema percorre tutti gli scritti del Nuovo Testamento. Fra di essi ha però un'importanza particolare il libro degli Atti degli Apostoli, nel quale l'evangelista Luca descrive i primi passi del movimento cristiano. Egli però scrive alcuni decenni dopo i fatti e li presenta con lo scopo di renderli attuali e rilevanti per i cristiani dei suoi tempi. Egli soprattutto vuole rispondere a due problemi: come mai il ritorno di Gesù non si è verificato e come è possibile annunziare la salvezza nel mondo romano le cui autorità avevano crocifisso il loro maestro. Presentato in questa prospettiva, il libro rivela risvolti molto interessanti anche per i lettori di oggi. E' quanto cerca di mostrare la presente opera.

In 2003, theologians and historians from various countries as well as different denominational backgrounds met in Assisi to attempt an overview of religious studies in the 20th century. This meeting contributed to the debate about the effects of epistemological transitions on theology and religious studies in the 20th century. The interdisciplinary approach and the historical, political and interdenominational character of the participants' panel enabled the meeting, the proceedings of which are published here, to identify some "coordinates" on the path of the 20th century from the point of view of theological and religious studies. Alberto Melloni is a researcher at the University of Rome (Italy). He specializes in the History of Christianity. Massimo Faggioli is a researcher at the Department of Politics, Institutions and History at the University of Bologna (Italy).

In the Seminar "The Pseudepigrapha and Christian Origins" of the "Studiorum Novi Testamenti Societas", chaired from 2000 to 2006 by Professors James H. Charlesworth (Princeton) and Gerbern S. Oegema (McGill), the relation between the Pseudepigrapha and the New Testament has been discussed systematically and intensively in a way never seen before. The Pseudepigrapha investigated included the Old Testament ones and those found in the Qumran as well as the Pseudepigrapha of the New Testament and the ones used in the Early Church. The seminar and its participants, who were all internally renowned experts from around the world, have focused on the use, adaptation, reinterpretation and further development of non-canonical traditions (except for Philo, Josephus, the Essene and early Rabbinic writings) in the canonical writings of Early Christianity. The seminar has met in total five times in various locations, while systematically being arranged around the following topics: The Pseudepigrapha and the Synoptic Gospels, the Gospel of John, the Epistles of Paul, the Other New Testament Writings, and the Revelation of John.

Studies in Ancient Cultural Interaction in Honour of A. Hilhorst

In Abraham in the Book of Jubilees Jacques van Ruiten offers a systematic analysis of one of the most important and extensive Second Temple Jewish treatments of the figure of Abraham (Jub. 11:14–23:8).

The encounter between interpretation and history in the writings of Josephus provides the conceptual framework for this collection of essays. In particular, the question of historical method, both ancient and modern, is explored from a variety of perspectives.

This volume brings together twenty-four articles of Prof. Calduch-Benages' work on the book of Ben Sira over the last two decades. Some were written originally in English and others have been translated from Spanish and Italian originals. They are divided in three groups: introductory, thematic, and exegetical essays. The exegetical articles offer a detail study of several passages of the book, some of them pivotal in the structure of the book (Sir 2,1; 4,11-19; 6,22; 22,27–23,6; 23,27; 24,22; 27,30–28,7; 34,1-8; 34,9-12; 42,15–43,33; 43,27-33). The thematic essays deal with important theological issues such as canon and inspiration, wisdom, fear of the lord, trial, cult, prayer, forgiveness, and creation. Other no less important issues such as power and authority, dreams, travels, perfumes, animals and garments are discussed as well. Special attention is given to topics related with women, for instance, Ben Sira' s classification of wives, divorce, polygamy, and the absence of named women in the Praise of the Ancestors (Sir 44–50).

In this critical analysis Enrico Mazza concentrates on structure as he traces the evolution of the Eucharistic Prayer from its origins in the ancient Jewish rites and its Christian beginnings in the Didache. He then examines the paleoanaphoras of the early centuries and moves through the origin and progressive development of the larger anaphoric families (Alexandrian, Roman, Antiochene), showing the influence of the Jewish rites on the formation of the Christian texts, and arriving finally at the classical anaphoras of the fourth century.

The Rewriting of Genesis 11:26-25:10 in the Book of Jubilees 11:14-23:8

Questo testo affronta il Prologo del Vangelo di Giovanni non come un inno al Logos, come viene comunemente spiegato, ma come un midrash giudaico del primo versetto della Genesi. Si tratterebbe dunque di un commento fatto con un metodo molto particolare che conduce a una vera e propria reinterpretazione dei primi versetti della Bibbia, un racconto della salvezza dalla creazione a Cristo. Per sostenere questa interpretazione l'autore confronta il testo greco del Codice Beza (Cambridge 1581) con il codice Vaticano e quello Sinaitico e recupera l'elaborazione filosofica-teologica di Filone d'Alessandria sulla figura del Logos, in base alla quale il Prologo di Giovanni si orienta verso Dio e verso il creato.

The Book of Sirach raises many questions: philological, exegetical, literary, historical, theological. There were even confessional questions which divided the traditions of synagogues and churches. It is, therefore, a fascinating book, located on the edges of the canon. Does the book attempt to repair the harm done by the erosive criticism of Job and Qoheleth, or is it the work of a thoughtful interpreter who, in a time of change, seeks to bear the tradition towards the new situation emerging from the Hellenistic Diaspora? Is it a book which aims at the restoration of the true faith against the autonomous questing of human wisdom, or is it merely a sincere, if shrewd, experiment at dialogue between the legitimate reasoning of the world and the wisdom given in the Law? According to a well-tried methodology of juxtaposing the specialists of different schools, this volume presents an up to date consideration of historical, exegetical and theological research.
