Questa raccolta di poesie e di racconti popolari anonimi in dialetto molisano tracciano il percorso di due storie che, pur diversificate, si compenetrano e si completano a vicenda: la storia individuale dell' autore e la storia collettiva della societa di un paese del Sud. Le immagini di un mondo apparentemente immobile e arcaico si alternano alle vicende di una realta storica complessa e tormentata, nel cui magma vecchio e nuovo si scontrano e si fondono. This collection of poems and anonymous folktales in the Molisan dialect traces the unfolding of two stories which, although distinct, interweave and complete each other: the author's individual story and the story of a town in the South of Italy. The images of an apparently immobile and archaic world alternate with the events of a complex and tormented historical reality, in whose magma the new and the old clash and fuse."

Volpi, gabbiani, pappagalli, testuggini, pipistrelli, granchi, cormorani, storni. E ancora falchi, rospi, ramarri, scoiattoli, barbagianni, farfalle. E poi querce, alberi del paradiso, palme, capperi, viole, papaveri e molto altro. Roma, come ogni città, ha il suo cuore selvatico: sta a noi scoprirlo. «Una delle ultime volte che ho ammirato un falco pellegrino sfrecciare nel cielo di Roma è stato a Casal Bruciato, sulla Tiburtina. Assistevo alla partita di calcio di mio figlio quando mi sono distratto per osservare i gruppi di storni che a frotte ritornavano ai dormitori. Quando uno di questi si è prima chiuso a pugno e poi si è aperto in forme geometriche sempre più veloci, ho scorto la sagoma a falce del falco. Ho dimenticato la partita e ho seguito il volo del rapace, rapido e pulito, senza però che raggiungesse le vertiginose velocità di cui è capace.» Un diario naturalistico urbano dove protagonisti sono animali e piante, la loro storia, il loro arrivo, la loro scoperta, i luoghi inaspettati e vicini che abitano.

Venice is a Fish: A Cultural Guide

Sentieri di carta

Two novellas about domestic life, isolation, and the passing of time by one of the finest Italian writers of the twentieth century. Carmine, an architect, and Ivana, a translator, lived together long ago and even had a child, but the child died, and their relationship fell apart, and Carmine married Ninetta, and their child is Dodò, who Carmine feels is a little dull, and these days Carmine is still spending every evening with Ivana, but Ninetta has nothing to say about that. Family, the first of these two novellas from the 1970s, is an examination, at first comic, then progressively dark, about how time passes and life goes on and people circle around the opportunities they had missed, missing more as they do, until finally time is up. Borghesia, about a widow who keeps acquiring and losing the Siamese cats she hopes will keep her company in her loneliness, explores similar ground, along with the confusions of feeling and domestic life that came with the loosening social strictures of the 1970s. "She remembered saying that there were three things in life you should always refuse," thinks one of Natalia Ginzburg's characters, beginning to age out of youth: "Hypocrisy, resignation, and unhappiness. But it was impossible to shield yourself from those three things. Life was full of them and there was no holding them back."

If you choose to share 'the facts of life' with children at a young age, this is the perfect book to do so. It gently guides the reader through each stage of a child's development within the womb with charming illustrations and simple explanations, inviting lots of discussion and providing answers to all those questions. Shortlisted for the Junior Science Book Award (now the Royal Society's Science Prize).

Funny, reassuring, touching, and beautifully repackaged, children will enjoy reading Jill Tomlinson's animal tales again and again! When Hilda has an idea, nothing can stop her!

How Did I Begin?

The Kamishibai man used to ride his bicycle into town where he would tell stories to the children and sell them candy, but gradually, fewer and fewer children came running at the clappers. They were all watching their new televisions instead. Finally, only one boy remained, and he had no money for candy. Years later, the Kamishibai man and his wife made a candy, and he pedaled into town to tell one more story—his own. When he comes out of the reverie of his memories, he looks around to see he is surrounded by familiar faces—the entertainers have returned, all grown up and more eager than ever to listen to his delightful tales. Using two very different yet remarkable styles of art, Allen Say tells a tale within readers seamlessly to the Japan of his memories.
