'Devastating and urgent, this book could not be more timely' Caroline Criado Perez

Online Library Hate Crimes In Cyber Space

Danielle Citron
(Dumbarton Oaks Medieval Library)
takes the conversation about technology and privacy out of the boardrooms and op-
eds to reach readers where we are - in our bathrooms and bedrooms; with our families and our lovers; in all the parts of our lives we

assume are (Dumbarton Oaks

untouchable - and shows us that privacy, as we think we know it, is largely already gone. The boundary that once protected our intimate lives from outside interests is an artefact of the twentieth century.

Online Library Hate Crimes In Cyber Space

(Dumbarton Oaks
Medieval Library)

In the twenty-first, we have embraced a vast array of technology that enables constant access and surveillance of the most private aspects of our lives. From non-consensual pornography, to online extortion, to the sale of our data for profit, we are vulnerable to abuse. As Citron reveals, wherever we live, laws have failed miserably to keep up with corporate or individual violators, letting our privacy wash out with the technological tide.

(Dumbarton Oaks

Online Library Hate Crimes In Cyber Space

(Dumbarton Oaks
Medival Library)

And the erosion of intimate privacy in particular, Citron argues, holds immense toxic power to transform our lives and our societies for the worse (and already has). With vivid examples drawn from interviews with victims, around the world,

The Fight for threats? This book brings together a diverse range of multidisciplinary ideas to explore the extent of cyber threats, cyber hate and cyber terrorism. This ground-breaking text provides a comprehensive understanding of the range of activities that can be defined as cyber threats. It also shows how this activity forms in our communities and what can be done to try to prevent individuals from becoming cyber terrorists. This text will be of interest to academics, professionals and practitioners involved in building social capital; engaging with hard to reach individuals and communities; the police and criminal justice sector as well as IT professionals.

Some pundits claim cyber weaponry is

(Dumbarton Oaks

the most important military innovation in decades, a transformative new technology that promises a paralyzing first-strike advantage difficult for opponents to deter.
Yet, what is cyber strategy? How do actors use cyber

Online Library

capabilities to (Dumbarton Oaks
Medieval Library)
achieve a position of advantage against rival states? This book examines the emerging art of cyber strategy and its integration as part of a larger approach to coercion by states in the international system between

Online Library
Hate Crimes In

2000 and 2014. To this end, the book establishes a theoretical framework in the coercion literature for evaluating the efficacy of cyber operations. Cyber coercion represents the use of manipulation, denial, and

Online Library

punishment strategies in the digital frontier to achieve some strategic end. As a contemporary form of covert action and political warfare,

cyber operations
rarely produce concessions and tend to achieve only limited, signaling

Online Library Hate Crimes In Cyber Space

objectives. When cyber operations do produce

concessions
between rival states, they tend to be part of a larger integrated coercive strategy that combines network intrusions with other traditional forms of statecraft such as

Online Library
Cyber Space

military threats, economic sanctions, and diplomacy. The books finds that cyber operations rarely produce concessions in isolation. They are additive instruments that complement traditional statecraft and coercive diplomacy. The

Online Library
Hate Crimes In

(Dumbarton Oaks

book combines an analysis of cyber exchanges between rival states and broader event data on political, military, and economic interactions with case studies on the leading cyber powers: Russia, China, and the United States. The authors investigate cyber strategies in their integrated and isolated contexts, demonstrating that they are useful for maximizing informational asymmetries and disruptions, and thus are important, but limited coercive tools. This empirical foundation allows the authors to explore how leading actors employ cyber strategy and the implications for international relations in the 21st century. While most military plans involving cyber attributes remain highly classified, the authors piece (Dumbarton Oaks

together strategies based on observations of attacks over time and through the policy discussion in

The result will be evaluation of the efficacy of various strategic options in
