*Dale Carnegie, author of the legendary How to Win Friends and Influence People, began his career as the premier "life coach" of the twentieth century by teaching the art of public speaking. Public speaking, as Carnegie saw it, is a vital skill that can be attained through basic and repeated steps. His classic volume on the subject appeared in 1926 and was revised twice-in shortened versions-in 1956 and 1962. This 2006 revision-edited by a longtime consultant to Dale Carnegie & Associates, Inc., and the editor in charge of updating How to Win Friends and Influence People-is the definitive one for our era. While up-to-date in its language and points of reference, Public Speaking for Success preserves the full range of ideas and methods that appeared in the original: including Carnegie's complete speech and diction exercises, which follow each chapter, as the author originally designated them. This edition restores Carnegie's original appendix of the three complete self-help classics: Acres of Diamonds by Russell H. Conwell, As a Man Thinketh by James Allen, and A Message to Garcia by Elbert Hubbard. because, "a man convinced against his will, is of the same opinion still". Instead, try to: A. Welcome the disagreement – you might avoid a serious mistake. B. Watch out for and distrust your first instinct to be defensive. C. Control your temper. D. Listen first. E. Look first for areas of agreement. F. Be honest about and apologise for your mistakes. G. Promise to think over your opponent's ideas and study them carefully. H. Thank the other person sincerely for their time and interest. I. Postpone action to give both sides time to think through the problem. 2. Show respect for the other person's opinions. Never say "You're wrong." It's "tantamount to saying: 'I'm smarter than you are.'" Instead, consider that "you will never get into trouble by admitting that you may be wrong" and see the above point. Even if you know you are right, try something like: "I may be wrong. I frequently am. If I'm wrong I want to be put right. Let's examine the facts." 3. If you are wrong, admit it quickly and emphatically. "By fighting you never get enough, but by yielding you get more than you expected." Have the courage to admit your errors. Let the other person take the role of a collaborative and benevolent forgiver rather than an opponent. 4. Begin in a friendly way. Friendliness begets friendliness. Glow with it. Overflow with it. Remember that "a drop of honey can catch more flies than a gallon of gall.” and see also Aesop’s fable “The Wind and the Sun”. 5. Get the other person saying ‘yes, yes’ immediately. “Begin by emphasising – and keep emphasising – the things on which you agree... that you are both striving for the same end and that your only difference is one of method and not of purpose.” Try to begin with questions to which the only conceivable reply is “Yes”. This will help things get off on a collaborative foot. And remember, “He who treads softly goes far.” 6. Let the other person do a great deal of the talking. “Let other people talk themselves out. They know more about their business and problems than you do. So ask the questions. Let them tell you a few things... Don’t [interrupt]... They won’t pay attention to you while they still have a lot of ideas of their own crying for expression”. Don’t waste air boasting about your own achievements: “If you want enemies, excel your friends; but if you want friends, let your friends excel you.” 7. Let the other person feel the idea is his or hers. “You have much more faith in ideas that you discover for yourself than in ideas that are handed to you.” Allow others to design and become invested in their own solutions. Consult with them, collaborate on and influence a half-finished idea rather than presenting a final solution. Avoid self-importance, instead, remember "The reason why rivers and seas receive the home of a hundred mountain streams is that they keep below them."

8. Try honestly to see things from the other person's point of view. Take the time to put yourself in the other person's shoes. If you can, sit down with a piece of paper and a pen. Set a timer for 10 minutes and begin with the words: "What X is probably feeling now is..." Keep writing from their perspective until the timer goes off.

9. Be sympathetic with the other person's ideas and desires. Begin always with "I don't blame you one iota for feeling as you do. If I were you I would undoubtedly feel just as you do." Be honest about your own flaws and idiosyncrasies. It will help you be more sympathetic with those of others. Remember "Three-fourths of the people you will ever meet are hungering and thirsting for sympathy. Give it to them, and they will love you".

10. Appeal to the nobler motives. "People are honest and want to discharge their obligations, the exceptions to that rule are comparatively few". They "will in most cases react favourably if you make them feel that you consider them honest, upright and fair".

11. Dramatise your ideas. Present your ideas in an interesting, creative and dramatic way that captures attention. Think laterally; how can you present tabular data in a creative way that encourages interaction and engages more of the senses than just sight? Take your inspiration from television and advertising – they’ve been in this game a long time. 12. Throw down a challenge. “The way to get things done is to stimulate competition. I do not mean in a sordid money-getting way, but in the desire to excel.” Pay is not enough to motivate people. Instead, the work itself must be motivating and exciting. Make performance metrics public. Let people enjoy a challenge. “That is what every successful person loves: the game. The chance for self-expression. The chance to prove his or her worth, to excel, to win.” How to Win Friends & Influence People by Dale Carnegie
