Books are dangerous People in Blanow think that books are dangerous: they fill your head with drivel, make poor firewood and cannot be eaten (even in an emergency). This book is about

Howul. He sees things differently; fires are dangerous; people are dangerous; books are just books. Howul secretly writes down what goes on around him in Blanow. How its people treat foreigners, treat his daughter, treat him.

None of it is pretty.
Worse still,
everything here
keeps trying to kill
him: rats, snakes,
diseases, roof slates,
the weather, the sea.
That he survives
must mean something. He wants to find out what. By trying to do this, he gets himself thrown out of Blanow... and so his journey begins. Like all gripping stories, HOWUL is about the bad things people do to each other and what to do if they happen to you. Some people use sticks to stay safe. Some use guns. Words are the weapons that Howul uses most. He makes them sharp. He makes them hurt. Of course books are dangerous. Cover design: Alison Buck
