Le migrazioni sono una realtà complessa, diffusa e strutturale, che negli ultimi decenni ha conosciuto uno sviluppo senza precedenti. Esse presentano inoltre risvolti spesso drammatici, come testimonia la cronaca ormai quotidiana. Alla crescita del fenomeno si accompagna, peraltro, lo sviluppo di politiche restrittive e di espressioni xenofobe e discriminatorie. Lo studio presenta una lettura interdisciplinare della realtà migratoria, allo scopo di evidenziare le convergenze significative che risultano dal dialogo tra scienze umane e scienze teologiche. Il carattere processuale e relazionale delle migrazioni, la dimensione aperta delle identità nazionali, etniche e culturali, offrono all'approccio teologico la possibilità di cogliere uno spazio ermeneutico che ci permette di parlare di Dio, della persona umana e del mondo, di Cristo e della Chiesa. L'analisi del rapporto profondo tra missione e migrazioni arriva ad ipotizzare la missione tra, per e con i migranti come un nuovo paradigma della missione stessa della Chiesa. Sulla scorta dei documenti della Chiesa postconciliare risulta inoltre evidente il passaggio dalla pastorale migratoria di conservazione ad una pastorale missionaria, dialogica e comunionale. Tempo delle migrazioni, il nostro è soprattutto tempo dello straniero. In questo contesto assume importanza il tema del riconoscimento, assoluto ed incondizionato, reciproco e riconoscente dell'altro, che apre la via alla relazione amorosa, nella quale trovano significato e si incontrano alterità e identità, unità e molteplicità, differenza e uguaglianza, periferia e centro, distanza e prossimità.

*This book outlines essential issues of Antonio Gramsci's thought, from his relationship to other political thinkers, including Rosa Luxemburg, Lenin, and Machiavelli; the development of his key conceptual categories; and the applicability of those categories in contemporary contexts. The author demonstrates how Gramsci's revolutionary strategy begins with the knowledge of the subaltern classes common sense, and their elements of rebellion, in order to establish a dialectical relationship between intellectuals and the masses. That relationship promotes collective intellectual progress, ultimately leading to an effective philosophy of praxis, founded on labor and a new hegemony. The book demonstrates that Gramsci's thought offers possibilities for understanding the serious crises of today. Firmly rooted on Roman and canon law, Italian legal culture has had an impressive influence on the civil law tradition from the Middle Ages to present day, and it is rightly regarded as "the cradle of the European legal culture." Along with Justinian's compilation, the US Constitution, and the French Civil Code, the Decretum of Master Gratian or the so-called Glossa ordinaria of Accursius are one of the few legal sources that have influenced the entire world for centuries. This volume explores a millennium-long story of law and religion in Italy through a series of twenty-six biographical chapters written by distinguished legal scholars and historians from Italy and around the world. The chapters range from the first Italian civilians and canonists, Irnerius and Gratian in the early twelfth century, to the leading architect of the Second Vatican Council, Pope Paul VI. Between these two bookends, this volume offers notable case studies of familiar civilians like Bartolo, Baldo, and Gentili and familiar canonists like Hostiensis, Panormitanus, and Gasparri but also a number of other jurists in the broadest sense who deserve much more attention especially outside of Italy. This diversity of international and methodological perspectives gives the volume its unique character. The book will be essential reading for academics working in the areas of Legal History, Law and Religion, and Constitutional Law and will appeal to scholars, lawyers, and students interested in the interplay between religion and law in the era of globalization.

Environment, Social Justice, and the Media in the Age of Anthropocene addresses three imminent challenges to human society in the age of the Anthropocene. The first challenge involves the survival of the species; the second the breakdown of social justice; and the third the inability of the media to provide global audiences with an adequate orientation about these issues. The notion of the Anthropocene as a geological age shaped by human intervention implies a new understanding of the human context that influences the physical and biological sciences. Human existence continues to be affected by the physical and biological reality from which it evolved but, in turn, it affects that reality as well. This work addresses this paradox by bringing together the contributions of researchers from very different disciplines in conversation about the complex relationships between the physical/biological world and the human world to offer different perspectives and solutions in establishing social and environmental justice in the age of the Anthropocene.

Captures some special moments and some key issues at the heart of the transition from Pope Benedict XVI to Francis, with the intuition that this unexpected transition reveals something which is not only a special "Catholic event," but also a particular historical moment in a tradition in flux.
