'Drawing inspiration from actor-network theory, science studies, and semiotics, this brilliant book makes us completely rethink the workings of bureaucracy as analyzed by Max Weber and James Scott. Matthew Hull demonstrates convincingly how the materiality of signs truly matters for understanding the projects of 'the state.' - Katherine Verdery, author of What was Socialism, and What Comes Next? 'We are used to studies of roads and rails as central material infrastructure for the making of modern states. But what of records, the reams and reams of postalcolonial Pakistan. This is a work of signal importance for our understanding of the everyday graphic artifacts of authority.' - Bill Maurer, author of Mutual Life, Limited: Islamic Banking, Alternative Currencies, Lateral Reason 'This is an excellent and truly exceptional ethnography. Hull presents a theoretically sophisticated and empirically rich reading that will be an invaluable resource to scholars in the field of Anthropology and South Asian studies. The author's focus on bureaucracy, 'corruption,' writing systems and urban studies (Islamabad) in a post-colonial context is a refreshing voice that breaks the mold of current representation of Pakistan through the security studies paradigm.' - Kamran Asdar Ali, Director, South Asia Institute, University of Texas
