Progress of ICT

perceived as a
deviation from the normal
development of the human organism.

The molecular,
cellular, and tissue
determinants of
different tumours
are discussed
showing that each
is a different
disease, often
corresponding to a particular developmental stage. The natural history of several cancers illustrates how clinical incidence can be just the visible part of the iceberg, while the first changes at the tissue level sometimes occur several years before

tumour growth
becomes manifest.

Several

mechanisms are proposed to explain
the distribution of
cancers during the
human life span
and the decline of
the incidence of
cancers during
human senescence.

and the automotive
sector are two of the most important
industries in the EU and the US. The EU ' s eastern

economic

reinforced competition on the one hand; on the other hand the importance of outsourcing and offshoring has increased. Against this background the intensification of innovation dynamics becomes crucial - and with them the role of regional innovation clusters.

The analysis

regions and six EU countries. The focus is on cluster and
network dynamics in both industries, as
