Elmore, 1896 Dear sir - With this I hand you my report on the gold occurrences of the Upper Belt of the Alabama Gold Regions. The field work which furnishes the material for the greater part of these notes was done during the summers of 1893 - 4. Since that time, however, I have had occasion to revisit several parts of the field where active work of prospecting or mining Was being carried on, and to revise the notes, and bring them up to date. This will explain the lack of compactness or unity in some of the descriptions, especially of the Pinetucky, Idaho and Arbacoochee Districts. About

Access PDF Gold Preliminary

This paper has been written to aid the owner of a small gold mine or prospect in preparing a report on his property for the purpose of interesting capital. If an owner can afford to do so, he should employ a mining engineer of recognized standing and experience to examine and report on his property, but many owners of small mines and particularly of prospects cannot make the expenditure required for this. Further, many of them do not know how to prepare a description which will cover those features of a deposit on which a potential investor promises his opinion as to its worth. If such an owner is convinced that he possesses and orebody of sufficient grade and size to warrant the required expenditure for a thorough investigation and wishes to present his property to prospective investors, then the following suggestions concerning the proper way to sample his deposit, estimate the tonnage of developed and probable ore, and prepare a report may be of assistance. Gold Pre-First Exam Maximiser: *
