Excerpt from Bailliere's New South Wales Gazetteer and Road Guide, 1866: Containing the Most Recent and Accurate Information as to Every Place in the Colony Case of the Victorian Gazetteer, but little need be said the form of introduction in presenting the following work to the notice of the public. The favourable reception accorded to the former work fully justified the publisher and compiler in advancing another step in carrying out their original idea of issuing Gazetteers of all the Australian colonies in succession. The much larger size of the book, and the addition of a new feature, in the form of an index to the names of squatters, will, it is hoped, prove the desire of the projectors to omit nothing that can enhance its value; whilst the mass of information will, it is confidently trusted, afford to readers an accurate and comprehensive idea of the state - physical, political, and social - of the vast Colony of New South Wales, and of her progress. The Historical Guide to New South Wales is a unique reference work. Never before has there been an attempt to succinctly record the location, history, industries, buildings, calamities and the population of over 9,700 cities, towns, villages, hamlets and localities (outside Sydney), whether extant or defunct. Neither has a record ever been made of the numerous surveyors who laid out our towns and the architects, engineers and builders who designed and built their most important structures. The small size of most of these places has never justified their inclusion in any standard reference book and, until now, their location and history have been a mystery to most. This book attempts to collate the significant details of each place from 1788 to 2020. More specifically, it indicates when a place was settled, surveyed, gazetted and established; the local produce of the district; the public services available and when they were provided; the natural disasters, accidents, epidemics and infestations that affected the inhabitants; the churches where they were baptised and married; the factories, mills and mines in which they worked; and the graveyards and cemeteries where they were buried. In addition, it gives details of many thousands of churches, industrial structures, public buildings, public works and utilities etc. and, in many cases, who designed them, when they were built and by whom. The Historical Guide to New South Wales will be indispensable to historians, geographers, librarians, heritage

OUR STORY Traveling is a passion of the Greater than a Tourist book series creator. Lisa studied abroad in college, and for their honeymoon Lisa and her husband toured Europe. During her travels to Malta, an older man tried to give her some advice based on his own experience living on the island since he was a young boy. She was not sure if she should talk to the stranger but was interested in his advice. When traveling to some places she was wary to talk to locals because she was afraid that they weren't being genuine. Through her travels, Lisa learned how much locals had to share with tourists. Lisa created the Greater Than a Tourist book series to help connect people with locals. A topic that locals are very passionate about sharing.
