Playing Inked Hearts Book 2

A woman struggling with burnout learns to embrace the unexpected—and the man she enlists to help her—in this new New York Times bestselling romance by Helen Hoang. When violinist Anna Sun accidentally achieves career success with a viral YouTube video, she finds herself incapacitated and burned out from her attempts to replicate that moment. And when her longtime boyfriend announces he wants an open relationship before making a final commitment, a hurt and angry

Anna decides that if he wants an open relationship, then she does, too. Translation: She's going to embark on a string of one-night stands. The more unacceptable the men, the better. That's where tattooed, motorcycle-riding Quan Diep comes in. Their first attempt at a one-night stand fails, as does their second, and their third, because being with Quan is more than sex—he accepts Anna on an unconditional level that she herself has just started to understand. However, when tragedy strikes Anna's family she takes on a role that she is ill-suited for, until the burden of expectations threatens to destroy her. Anna and Quan have to fight for their chance at love, but to do that, they also have to fight for themselves.

My brother's best friend is the whole package--sweet, smart, funny, and smoking hot.

There's just one problem...according to him, I'm totally off-limits. Lolal'd had a crush on Dane Webster since I was old enough to know what one was. But he only ever saw me as his best friend's kid sister. Now that I was all grown up and working side-by-side with both of them, the close proximity was making me feel things I shouldn't have been feeling--especially since Dane locked me down firmly in the friend zone. His offer of friendship came complete with the suggestion that he should be my wingman. After the horror wore off, I considered the possibilities...would helping me meet other men make him finally see me? It was worth a shot...Dane Nate Walton was my brother from another mother, which made Lola like a sister to me. Sure, I flirted with her outrageously, but that was just to mess with Nate...and he fell for it every time. But I couldn't deny she was attractive, with her glossy supposed to be together forever. Then things got hard and Ethan forced me to choose between him and everything I've worked for. Now he's back in my life. He says we'll be friends. It's been a long time. I can forgive, but I can't seem to forget. The taste of his lips, the sound of his groans in my ears, those calloused fingers between my legs-- I'm going out of my mind remembering all the pleasure he brought me. Worse, I keep thinking of how happy he made me. I can't fall back in love with Ethan. It doesn't matter how badly I crave his gorgeous blue eyes, his tattooed arms, and his strong guitarists' hands. It

Clay: My mind and body are full of chaos; the only time I can truly feel free is when my hands, arms, and legs are secured. Just because I want to be bound, able to give over my pleasure entirely to another person, doesn't mean I want to be controlled, humiliated, or made to endure pain. I'm a successful, happy, confident adult man who wants a lover to tie him up. Why is that so scandalous? And why is it so difficult to find? It doesn't help
