For thousands of years we have watched and fought to protect the citizens of the empires we served. First noted archaeologically in 5400 BC, first written about in 2700 BC by Emperor Fuxi, made famous by Sun Tsu when he wrote The Art of War, and used by Ho Chi Minh when he fought General Westmorland to defeat the US military. We are few now, vestages of a lost age. Read about how we think, our history, and some of the people that made us famous. We are warriors not athletes and for most of those 6000 years managed to stay behind the scenes, hidden from public scrutiny, and yet our teachings are in every war college in the world. Ten Years Under Tito's Heel

The Red Dragon has been variously treated as a grimoire, a piece of folk literature, and a joke manuscript; it comprises one part of what is loosely termed "The Grand Grimoire"- a collection of magickal works from the Renaissance such as the Black Pullet and Lesser Keys of Solomon. The Red Dragon however bears the title "Grand Grimoire" on its own. Multiple editions of it exist, some with material tacked on. It takes the form of a long ritualistic ceremony designed to secure communication with a demon known as "Lucifuge Rofocale" followed by various invocations and incantations and spells. The contents are heretical in the extreme, from rituals involving boiling a black cat to the use of toxic substances in ritual form. Small wonder, that this text has gained so much notoreity.

Over a billion Chinese are inventing a bridge between communism and capitalism, between their 1949 revolution and the digital age. Wearing business attire and talking on cell phones, they ride bicycles from small apartments to mammoth, new office buildings. They might blow their noses into the ashtray in the hotel lobby, but they would never wear their shoes into your home. Theirs has been the fastest growing economy in the world, and their military might will grow with their financial clout; yet, nonasian Americans know very little about the Chinese. Find out what they Chinese think about raising children or the struggle over Taiwan, how they survive their crowded conditions, what can be learned about racism or relationships from spending ninety days with one's spouse in China.
