Jeanette Winterson's

novel Written on the

between body and

Winterson's novel

and Roland Barthes's

A Lover's Discourse

as points of inquiry,

this thesis examines

conceptions of love

based on

heteronormative and

romanticized visions

of present and healthy bodies. This thesis asks how a body that is diseased and dying can express an emotion that is predicated on these very notions of presence, absence, and health. The narrator of the novel sees love as a scripted story that, once adhered to, determines the experience of love.

Louise's cancer threatens these scripts of love, as it destroys the narrator's conception of both love and Louise.

Despite the fact that Louise is absent and dying, the narrator begins to write a new story that will allow him/her to have a perfect relationship with Louise, so that s/he can reconcile the contradictions of the scripts that the relationship exposed. Using Slavoj Zizek's "Melancholy and the Act" and Richard Stamelman's Lost Beyond Telling as frameworks of mourning and melancholy, the narrator's melancholy over a lost presence thus emerges as a way that allows him/her to create a perfect love story. To make Louise appear perfect in this perfect love story, the narrator manipulates the language of
